HISTORY OF FROSTBURG

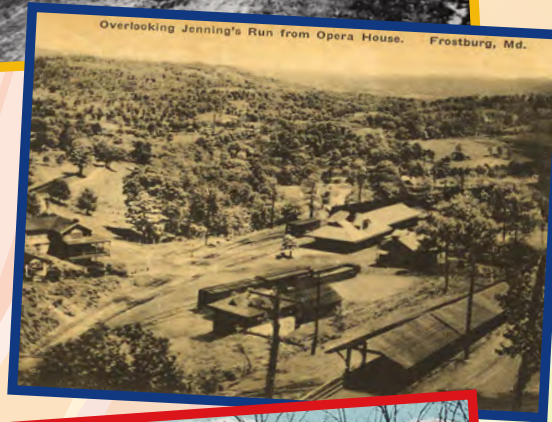

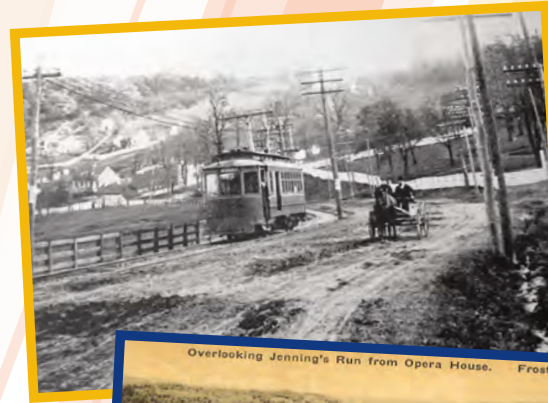

Frostburg, population 9,000, owes its beginnings to the authorization of the National Road 1806. Josiah Frost bought a tract of land lying across the route and laid out a series of 'town lots.' His son, Meshach, built a log house on Lot 1 (site of the current St. Michael's Church Rectory) and brought his bride to it in June, 1812. When stagecoach service was inaugurated in 1818, the village of Mt. Pleasant became a regular stopping point for east-west travelers. The cluster of taverns, smithies, and houses was also known as Frost Town. The Post Office Department identified the community as Frostburg in 1820.

Coal was discovered near Frostburg as early as 1782. The completion of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to Cumberland in 1842 and the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad to Frostburg in 1852 made it possible to ship coal in large quantities. Frostburg became a commercial center for mining, both thriving and suffering with the fluctuation of coal prices.

In 1898, the lobbying of local citizens led to the legislature's $20,000 appropriation for State Normal School #2. In 1902, fifty-seven students attended the two-year elementary school teacher training program. Today, Frostburg State University serves 4,755 undergraduate students, 630 graduate students, and employs 1,068 faculty and staff. FSU serves as a center of multi-cultural activity for the residents of our region.

Located off I-68 exits 33 & 34, Frostburg is just 2.5 hours from Baltimore and Washington, D.C., one hour from Morgantown, WV, and two hours from Pittsburgh, PA. Those who visit discover a small-town Main Street, historic homes, friendly residents, and four-season beauty.

Find the cockfight arena, jail, and other tidbits of history as you wander about the ground level of this 1897 landmark.

Community Model Railroad Club

10 West Mechanic Street

Home to our local O gauge train buffs. Stop by and enjoy their platform.

Great Allegheny Passage & Switchback Sculpture Garden

Depot Street

Park at the Frostburg Depot and enjoy the sculptures on a stroll to the trailhead. A hike or bike along the trail follows the gentle grade of the old C & O Railroad.

Frostburg State University

101 Braddock Road • www.frostburg.edu

A regional academic center, FSU also offers an arboretum, planetarium, discovery center, theatrical/musical performances, and athletic events. Check out what's happening and visit the beautiful campus.

Frostburg Museum

69 Hill Street • www.frostburgmuseum.org

Unusual collections and historical displays allow a "step back in time" for history lovers and those in pursuit of genealogy.

Maplehurst Country Club

100 Maplehurst Road • www.maplehurstcc.net

Open for public play, local citizens built this scenic golf course in the mid 1950s. The barn, circa 1880, serves as a clubhouse and banquet facility.

Evergreen Heritage Center

15603 Trimble Rd., Mt. Savage • www.evergreenheritagecenter.org

This pre-Revolutionary War estate hosts workshops and Open House Days to promote education, conservation, and preservation. The Homestead museum, outbuildings, and woodland trails portray early "Federal Hill" life.

Thrasher Carriage Museum

19 Depot Street • www.thethrashercarriagemuseum.com

A renovated 19th century warehouse houses one of the largest horse-drawn carriage collections in the country. Lavish sleighs and simple wagons illustrate the ingenuity of our past.
